

Abstract

The invention relates to a wall rod (1) to be applied in front of a vertical wall by means of wall supports(6), said wall rod comprising an extension on the upper end thereof, that extends in an arched manner away from the wall. The handle of a shower attachment can be inserted into the free end of said arched pipe extension, and the tube is guided downwards on the rear side of the wall rod (1)

-----